Salem, OR – September 28, 2017 – New Shepherd Films, LLC announced today that their upcoming documentary, The Robert Hartsock Story, has received committed distribution by C3 Entertainment, Inc.

“This was a key milestone for our project. Producing a story is one thing but being able to get it to market and available for viewers to enjoy is another thing entirely. This documentary is one of three main parts to our Forgotten Heroes project and we’re thrilled they see such potential impact behind this story and the projects that surround it” says Jim Huggins, New Shepherd Films’ President/CEO.

“Securing committed distribution before we’ve even completed post-production on this piece isn’t something that happens everyday, especially to small indies”, Huggins added.

The Forgotten Heroes project has three parts, each of which is focused on the true story of SSgt Robert Hartsock, the only military working dog handler to have ever received the Medal of Honor, and his dog Duke. The documentary, entitled The Robert Hartsock Story, is the first part and is comprised of the all the interviews and descriptions of the battle by the men who lived it. The documentary is expected to be available for distribution late 1Q of 2018. The novel is the second part and is the novelization of the story within movie’s screenplay. The movie will provide a much broader background and greater context for the story. The book is expected to be released in 2Q of 2018 which will coincide with current plans to begin production of the feature film.

Set in Vietnam, Forgotten Heroes tells the true story of one man’s impact on the lives of everyone around him in 1969 and his continuing legacy today. With over 10,000 American lives having been saved by over 4,000 dogs and their handlers, it’s time to tell the story.
